

Trade unions in Spain and the challenges of globalization and technological change
(Document 142/2008)

Holm-Detlev Köhler

Professor of Political Sciences

Challenges for the modernization of trade unions: Revitalize the organizational structure through cross-cutting projects, advance the joint flexible and complementary to collective bargaining, develop networks and structures of transnational action, become a discursive organization, change the image and form of communication, offer personalized and interactive services, develop knowledge of external resources (think tanks, consultants ...), participate in organizing local solidarity, develop new forms of action, pressure and conflict, integration into a global movement for social justice and sustainable development, seek partnerships with NGOs and progressive movements.